LEARNING OBJECTIVE: Scan for logical connectors to determine the text type
(EN8RC-1a-7.2:)

YOUR LESSON FOR TODAY:

Have you considered how connectors can help you process a reading text better? Or perhaps, you have long been ignoring them, taking them for granted, not knowing that they can be great tools for you to be a better reader.

- Logical Connectors

They are words and phrases which establish the logical relationship between ideas within a sentence or between sentences in a paragraph.

➤ General classes of logical connectors

Additive (signals addition, alternative, similarity)	and, also, besides, or, nor, further, furthermore, moreover, In addition, likewise, similarly, or, nor
Causal (signals cause/effect, reason, purpose, result)	because, consequently, due to, so, so that, in order that, a, since, thus, therefore
Adversative (signals conflict, contradiction, opposite ideas, comparison/contrast)	but, although, though, however, while, instead instead of, nevertheless, even though, on the other hand, on the contrary, yet, still
Sequential (signals chronological or logical order)	First, second, third, before, after, after that, afterwards, next, then, when, lastly, eventually, finally

- Now, let us look at how these connectors can be used in different text types. Let us study these texts types especially about their distinct features or characteristics.

- Text Type

Text type is a way of classifying different texts, both written and spoken according to purpose and structure. There are four major types of texts.

- Different text types

1. Expository Text

The novel coronavirus disease was officially defined as a pandemic by the World Health Organization (WHO) on March 11, 2020 due to its rapid spread around the world.

According to WHO, a pandemic is defined as the “worldwide spread of a new disease.”

When a new disease first emerges, most of us lack the natural protection or immunity to fight it off. This can cause a sudden, fast transmission of the disease between people, across communities, and around the world.

Key features:

- ✓ Its main purpose is to explain or give information.
- ✓ The authors focus on telling you about a given topic or subject without voicing their personal opinions.
- ✓ The text is fact-based through a reliable source.
- ✓ Usually makes use of cause-effect, comparison and contrast, and sequence connectors.

2. Descriptive Text

Who are my modern –day heroes? My modern-day heroes don’t have superpowers. They are just ordinary people who get tired and weak sometimes but they choose to be strong and brave for the people around them. They don’t wear capes but rather they wear lab suits and personal protective equipment (PPE). They are selfless and are compassionate. They choose to heal the sick and save lives despite the dangers of getting sick themselves or losing their own lives. Yes, they are my superheroes, they are our frontliners!

Key Features:

- ✓ Its main purpose is to describe.
- ✓ It describes places, people, events situations in a detailed manner.
- ✓ It usually uses additive or adversative connectors, comparison-contrast connectors

3. Persuasive Text

To unite as a country by distancing from each other seems contradictory, but that’s exactly what we must do amidst the coronavirus pandemic. Obviously, COVID-19 is spread through human interaction. The simple concept of social distancing has been introduced to help avoid personal contact, and therefore stop the spread of the disease.

Key features:

- ✓ Its main purpose is to convince.
- ✓ Unlike expository writing, persuasive writing contains the opinions and biases of the author.
- ✓ It includes justifications and reasons
- ✓ It usually uses causal and adversative connectors,

4. Narrative Text

Rey Perez and Beth Romulo are both nurses in the same public hospital.

Early Monday morning, before going to their respective duties, Rey proposed to Beth by writing “Will you marry me?” on his N95 mask. At first Beth thought it was a joke. Then she looked down at his hand and when she saw the ring, started crying. Rey got down on his knee, put ring on her finger, and officially asked her, “Will you marry me?” Without hesitation, Beth exclaimed, “yes!”

Name: _____
Grade Level: _____

Section: _____
Teacher: _____

4. Narrative Text

Key Features:

- ✓ Its main purpose is to tell a story.
- ✓ Has characters and dialogue
- ✓ Often contains actions, events and conflicts with their eventual solutions.
- ✓ It uses mainly sequential connectors and the other classes of connectors

Take note, a particular text type does not use only one class of connectors. Rather, the four types of texts may use a combination of the different logical connectors. Being able to identify these connectors and the logical relationships they express between ideas will help you determine a text type and therefore more easily understand the content of the text.

TRY TO DISCOVER!

Do you always wash your hands? Do you do it properly?
Read the paragraph below. And see whether you have been doing the same.

Washing your hands is easy, and it's one of the most effective ways to prevent the spread of germs. Follow these five steps every time.

First, wet your hands with clean, running water, turn off the tap, and apply soap. Next, lather your hands by rubbing them together with the soap. Lather the back of your hands, between your fingers, and under your nails. Third rinse your hands for at least 20 seconds. Need a timer? Hum the "Happy Birthday" song from beginning to end twice. Then, rinse your hands well under clean running water. Finally, dry your hands using a clean towel.

- Can you spot the logical connectors? Underline them.
- Now, can you identify the relationship of ideas being expressed by those connectors?
 - ✓ The logical connectors express sequence because they signal logical order or chronological order of ideas.
- What logical order of ideas is being explained in the paragraph?
 - ✓ It explains the proper steps or chronological order of washing hands.
- Therefore, what text type is the paragraph?
 - ✓ It is an expository paragraph

ARE YOU READY TO PRACTICE?

Is today's lesson clear to you? If not, go back to our discussion. Remember that understanding the relationship expressed in logical connectors will help you determine the type of a particular text.

If our lesson is clear to you, then you are now ready for more practices...
enjoy working and learning!

PRACTICE EXERCISE 1

DIRECTIONS: Read the paragraph carefully and encircle all the logical connectors. Then be able to determine the text type used. Write the letter of the correct answer in the blank after each item.

- | | |
|----------------|---------------|
| A. Expository | C. Persuasive |
| B. Descriptive | D. Narrative |

Name: _____

I love my best friend. She is kindhearted. She is very thoughtful and friendly to everyone. She never puts people down and cares about others before herself. She is funny and helps me laugh at myself. Because she is smart, she knows how to use humor to get her point without hurting anyone's feelings. She also uses humor to motivate and inspire people. Even during the community quarantine, she would always check out on me and just give me encouraging words.

Text Type _____

PRACTICE EXERCISE 2

A. DIRECTIONS: Complete the paragraph by filling in the blanks with the appropriate logical connectors.

finally after also and before but

As soon as I finished answering my English module 1.) _____ felt my stomach grumbling, I took out the peanut butter, coffee jelly and bread. 2.) _____ taking the lid off the jars, I spread the peanut butter on one side of the bread and the coffee jelly on the other side. 3.) _____, I put the two pieces of bread together. 4.) _____ 5.) _____ I took a bite, I turned on the TV set. _____ I settled on the sofa and enjoyed eating while watching my favorite TV show. I swear, that was the best peanut butter and coffee jelly sandwich I ever ate.

Text Type _____

B. DIRECTIONS: After filling in the blanks with the correct logical connectors, analyze the paragraph and then determine its text type.

Text Type: _____

PRACTICE EXERCISE 3

A. DIRECTIONS: Choose any of the topics below and share your thoughts with your parents, siblings or your friends. Then write a short persuasive paragraph about it. Be able to use proper logical connectors. Be inspiring rather than critical.

Topics:

- A. Please Stay Home (Bawal Lumabas)
- B. Let's Learn Still Despite the Covid
- C. Be Positive, Don't Stress

Name: _____
Grade Level: _____

Section: _____
Teacher: _____

B. DIRECTIONS: You may post your paragraph on your Facebook timeline in order to persuade as many of your Facebook friends to agree on your viewpoint.

GENERALIZATION:

Logical connectors are used to join or connect two ideas that have a particular relationship. They help to clarify the relationships of these ideas. These relationships can be additive, adversative, causal or sequential.

They create cohesion or a unified thought. They help the reader to follow the writer's reasoning and thus determine whether a text is expository, descriptive, persuasive or narrative.

EVALUATION

DIRECTIONS: Read each paragraph carefully. Then underline logical connectors to determine the text type whether it is Expository, Descriptive, Narrative or Persuasive.

1. Kim Chui is a famous Filipino-Chinese actress. She has lovely "chinita" eyes, and for this she is called Philippine showbiz's "Chinita Princess". Besides her pretty face and a beautiful body, she is likewise endowed with a great acting talent and graceful dance moves. She is also a smart and compassionate person who deeply cares about the people around her.

Text type: _____

2. Kim Chui went viral on social media because she could not clearly explain her point while defending the shutdown of ABS-CBN. In defense of her home network, Kim compared NTC's order to classroom rules which her bashers found to be not making any sense. Consequently, netizens made fun of her and threw harsh criticisms on her. The bashing shattered her. However, she was able to gain back her confidence after her song "Bawal Lumabas" recorded more than 10 million views across all social media platform in one day.

Text type: _____

3. Several days after Kim was able to move forward from a hurtful experience, she appeared on a television news program, and shared how happy she was at the sudden turn of events. "I could not believe that things are going well on my favor," she said, while tears started welling up her eyes. She went silent for a moment, trying to control her emotions. Then she took a deep breath and flashed her sweetest smile. Finally, she said, "I'm beyond grateful. God has been so good to me".

Text Type: _____

3. It takes a whole lot of guts to face millions of people and fight for what you truly believe in. Thus, Kim does not deserve to be singled out and get all the hate she is getting from people in the internet. We are not perfect. No one is. We have our own share of mistakes that shake us down to the ground but we learn and we rise up again. Let us stop the hate and bashing because it doesn't help us in our situation now. Let us, on the other hand, take a more positive approach in life.

MODULE IN ENGLISH 8

First Quarter/ Week 1/ Day 2

OBJECTIVE: Listen / Read for important points signalled by volume, projection, pitch, stress, intonation, juncture, and rate of speech. (EN8LC-Ia-5.1)

YOUR LESSON FOR TODAY:

The following are intonation phonemes of English: stress, juncture, and pitch. These are the melodies of language.

- Stress is the relative emphasis that may be given to certain syllables in a word, or to certain words in a phrase or sentence. In English, stressed syllables are louder than non-stressed syllables. Also, they are longer and have a higher pitch. In the following word, the stressed syllable is underlined:

Subject: noun as in "The subject of my talk is..."

Subject: verb as in "He will subject us to another story."

- Juncture refers to breaks or pauses in speech that indicate words or other grammatical units. Juncture is phonemic. That is, it changes the meaning. There are several phrases in English that are distinguishable in this way:

"that stuff"

"that's tough";

"an aim"

"a name".

In the first case, for example, the {s} of "stuff" is stronger, and the {t} of tough is aspirated

- Juncture, in linguistics, is the manner of moving (transition) between two successive syllables in speech. An important type of juncture is the suprasegmental phonemic cue by means of which a listener can distinguish between two otherwise identical sequences of sounds that have different meanings.
- Juncture is a pause or a slight delay in continuous flow of speech. Sound transitions characterize the movement from sound to sound within a word or a phrase.

Three Symbols of Juncture:	Meaning	Examples:
1. Single bar juncture	indicates the need for a slight pause between two thought groups in a sentence.	We visited our students/ who are sick.
2. Double bar juncture	indicates the need for a longer pause between two, thought groups in a sentence.	After eating// the dogs all appeared satisfied.
3. Double cross juncture	characterizes a drop in pitch. The pausing time responds to a need for semicolon, colon or period.	To err is human; #to forgive is divine.

Note: If the sentence consists only of one group, juncture is no longer needed.

A change of places of juncture in the sentence logically change the meaning of the sentence.

- Volume is the loudness of the speaker. It is the psychological characteristic of physical strength (amplitude). Loudness is then a subjective measure of the listener, which is often confused with objective measures of sound strength such as sound pressure level (in decibels), sound intensity, or sound power.
- Voice projection is an important speaking skill and the topic comes up frequently in my work. Your ability to be heard in meetings, in large rooms, or in noisy environments affects your credibility, as well as clarity. Your professional image is enhanced or diminished to the extent that you can fill a room and communicate your message clearly and successfully.
- A good rate of speech ranges between 140 -160 words per minute (wpm). A rate higher than 160 words per minute can be difficult for the listener to absorb the material. There may be some areas of the country that speak at faster rates but a slower rate is preferable.
- Pitch is the rise and fall of voice when we speak, sometimes called "highness" or "lowness" We use pitch to give subtle meaning to sentences.
- The use of pitch is called intonation, but the words "pitch" and "intonation" are often interchangeably.

Examples:

Falling Intonation	Rising Intonation
Why wasn't the door locked?	What time's the meeting?
When did you get here?	Where should we go for dinner?

Wh- Question Intonation and Pitch"Unmarked" wh- questions tend to end in a falling pitch.

Wh- question sentences—those are the questions that begin with the words 'who, what, where, when, why' and 'how'—typically end in a falling pitch.

This is opposite of the pattern for yes/no questions, whose pitch boundaries normally rise.

Purpose of a rising pitch in wh- questions

While wh- questions typically end in a falling pitch, there are reasons a rising pitch can be used. Ending a wh- question with a rising pitch could be asking for repetition or clarification of previously known information.

Ending "Where should we go for dinner?" in a rising pitch may signal that the topic was already discussed. Perhaps the answer was forgotten or even never decided, so the speaker is asking for confirmation.

Example:

Similarly asking, "What time's the meeting?" with a falling pitch is requesting basic information. Using a rising pitch, however, could indicate that the speaker wants to verify the schedule.

Example:

Yes /No Question Intonation and Pitch"Yes/No Rising Pitch" in Unmarked Questions

Yes/no questions--those are the ones whose answers can be a "yes" or a "no"-- tend to end in a rising pitch pattern. This is opposite of the pattern for wh- questions, whose pitch boundaries normally fall.

Example:

Yes/No Falling Pitch and Its Purpose

Using a falling pitch in a yes/no question can show that the person asking the question already knows the answer. Why would a person ask a question if the answer is already known? Maybe the asker wants confirmation, or is using the question itself as a reminder.

Example:

Name: _____ Grade and Section: _____

Teacher's Name _____

- Rate of Speech

1. Speaking rate is often expressed in words per minute (wpm). To calculate this value, you'll need to record yourself talking for a few minutes and then add up the number of words in your speech. Divide the total number of words by the number of minutes your speech took.

2. Speaking rate (wpm) = total words / number of minutes

3. You can record yourself with your smartphone or even with a video camera.

4. Once you have the audio of your speech, there are two ways to get the number of words:

5. Manually count the words as you listen back to the audio.

TRY TO DISCOVER!

Read the following Wh- questions with proper intonation.

Write them in the correct column of intonation.

Are you going on vacation?

Do you have Dave's phone number?

Are you going on vacation?

Do you have Dave's phone number?

Rising Intonation	Falling Intonation

Read the sentences together with your siblings.

Let's practice your way of speaking. Read from left to right

Intonation Word and Sentence Stress Activity

DO WII NO HUE	→	Do we know you?
EUROPE ART TOUGH IT	→	You're apart of it.
JOG CLAY DIE SCREAM	→	chocolate ice cream
HYPE PEOPLE EARTH DUH HEY	→	Happy birthday

How did you read the it? Did you easily understand the sentences on the left side?

Did apply the corrcet stress and intonation in reading sentences or phrases on the right side?

Let's have more practice .

ARE YOU READY TO PRACTICE?

In the English language, there is one phenomenon concerning stress that you can observe: There are many verbs that consist of two syllables. Mostly, the stress is on the second syllable. Due to historical developments, the same word has become a noun. The noun, however, is stressed differently: the stress is on the first syllable. Look at the examples:

Examples: verbs	nouns
to re cord	a re cord
to per mit	a per mit
to ad dress	an ad dress

Name: _____ Grade and Section: _____

Teacher's Name _____

Put a stress to the words by underlining it. Follow the example above.

Verbs	Nouns
to export	an export
to transport	a transport
to transfer	a transfer
to update	an update
to increase	an increase

PRACTICE EXERCISE 1:

Rising and Falling Intonation

Read the dialogue together with your siblings. Apply the correct intonation. Write them in the correct column of intonation.

Rose: Oh, hi Vilma! Where are you going? (falling intonation)

Vilma: Hello Rose! I'm going to the canteen because my tummy is craving and dying for food to eat now. Do you want to go with me? (rising intonation)

Rose: Ah, no! I've been there a while ago. So, I'm gonna go now, bye! See ya' later!

Vilma: Oh, okay. Bye!

Rising Intonation	Falling Intonation

PRACTICE EXERCISES 2:

A. Read the sentence. Put the symbol single bar juncture (/) in the sentence.

Example : Sarah / wash the floor everyday.

Jay Ar swim carefully to win the game.
Zack Roland walk along the street to buy food.
One of the students who are absent are sick.
One who gets irritated easily is unhappy.

B. Read the sentence. Put the symbol double bar juncture (//) in the sentence.

Example: Dr. Jose Rizal // our national hero // was born on June 19, 1861.

1. Mr. Ronald Pascual , the singing professor teaches English well.
2. Mrs. Rosario B. Cruz, who holds a doctoral degree is my daughter.
3. Mr. Bruce Dales who is still a freshman is taking up a medicine in UST.

PRACTICE EXERCISE 3:

The stressed syllables are presented by bold writing . the stress. Ask your parents to say Read the words with correct stress on it.

confidential	parents	holiday	degree
weaker	alone	admiration

GENERALIZATION:

The following are intonation phonemes of English: stress, juncture, and pitch. These are the melodies of language. English is a stress-timed language. That means that stressed syllables appear at a roughly steady tempo, whereas non-stressed syllables are shortened.

Voice projection is the strength of speaking or singing whereby the voice is used loudly and clearly. It is a technique employed to command respect and attention.

Name: _____ Grade and Section: _____

Teacher's Name _____

Let's Play a Telephone

- Let's have a game, it's time to go back to elementary school and play telephone.
- Together with your sibling sit in a circle on the floor. You will start by whispering a word or phrase with a certain stress (beautiful lady) to your sister, and so on until the last is your brother will say it aloud, and all can hear how the phrases changed (or didn't) on its journey around the circle. Depending on how it goes, you can do it again with a longer phrase or even a whole sentence or question.
- Encouraging your siblings to put some emotion behind the delivery (rather than just saying one word louder than the rest).

Did you enjoy the game? _____

What have you observe with your voice? _____

What have you noticed with the stress of the word " lady"? _____

Why do you think there's a need to put emotion in delivering the word? _____

EVALUATION

DIRECTIONS: Listen / Read for important points signaled by volume, projection, pitch, stress, intonation, juncture, and rate of speech.

A. Read the passages and analyze. Identify the symbol juncture to be used. Rewrite the sentences to spaces provided. (/) (//) (#)

Example: A vision without action is a daydream; # an action without vision is a nightmare.

1. It is not what a man tells but what he does that makes him great.
Answer:
2. Study your lesson otherwise you' ll fail.
Answer:
3. For instance, if he wants to see the effect of sunlight on growing plants, he takes many plants as like as possible.
Answer:
4. The gap between what is known and all that can be known about the universe seems to increase with each new discovery.

B. Read the telephone conversation. Pick out the sentences with rising and falling intonation. Write your answer on the table.

Good morning.
Could you hold on a moment, please?
I'm sorry, she is out of the Office today.
Thank you for calling.
May I ask who's calling, please?
I'm trying to contact, please wait...
I'm afraid my English not good, please...
I'm afraid he's in a meeting.
He's free in the afternoon after about two.
I would like to make a reservation, please.

MODULE IN ENGLISH 8 /Week 1/ Day 3

LEARNING OBJECTIVE: Express appreciation for sensory images used
EN8LT-Ic2.2.1:

YOUR LESSON FOR TODAY:

Have you ever read an excerpt from a book or poem and felt like you were right there in the middle of the story? It's as if you taste a sweet cake, as if you see a dazzling display of colors, as if you feel a rough texture?

In this lesson, we will study a particular literary device that makes a piece of writing come alive and realistic and thus makes you enjoy your reading.

- Sensory images, known as “imagery” in literature, are the author’s use of descriptive language to engage one of the reader’s five senses. (sight, smell, taste, touch, and hearing).
 - Sensory images stimulate the reader’s imagination and create mental pictures from what is being described.

Five Senses
Sight-visual	Sound-auditory	Smell-olfactory	Taste-gustatory	Feeling-tactile
Describes what we see	Describes what we hear	Describes what we smell	Describes what we taste	Describes what we feel colors, shapes, patterns, size	music, silence, noise, voice	nice fragrances, bad odors	sour, sweet, acidic, bitter, salty	texture, temperature

Why do writers use sensory images?

- Sensory images can bring writing to life and draw the reader towards the characters, the scene, setting and mood of a written work through imagining the details being described.
- Sensory images give readers the pleasure of making their own inferences and conclusions about a written work and thus better understand and appreciate it.
- Without sensory images, the reader becomes bored and cannot emotionally connect to the story.
- We experience life through our senses, a strong and enjoyable piece of writing should appeal to us through the use of sensory images.

Examples of sensory images in sentences:

1. It was dark and dim in the forest.

The words “dark” and “dim” appeal to our sense of sight, or visual images.

2. The children were screaming and shouting in the fields.

“Screaming” and “shouting” appeal to our sense of hearing, or auditory sense.

3. He whiffed the aroma of brewed coffee.

“Whiff” and “aroma” evoke our sense of smell, or olfactory sense.

4. The girl ran her hands on a soft satin fabric.

The idea of “soft” in this example appeals to our sense of touch, or tactile sense.

5. The fresh and juicy orange is very cold and sweet.

“Juicy” and “sweet” – when associated with oranges – have an effect on our sense of taste, or gustatory sense.

TRY TO DISCOVER!

Read each of the following paragraphs. What do you notice?

Paragraph A

I like to go to the beach. There is a lot of sand and some trees there. People play games on the beach, and some people like to swim. I used to go to the beach during summertime in my country.

Paragraph B from "The Beautiful Beach" by Mora Siregar

I remember one time prior to the pandemic when I went to the beach with my friends. First, my friends and I looked for a good place when we arrived at the beach, because it would be very crowded on weekends or holidays. We selected a cool place under the trees and extended a mat on the white sand. The wind that blew through the trees softly made the weather cool and pleasant. Peace came into my heart when I looked at the very beautiful long, white sand. People played games on the beach; for instance, they played volleyball. Some of them swam in the shallow sea. There were some kids trying to build something in the sand.

Which paragraph is more interesting? Why? Which paragraph helps you to "see" the beach in your mind? How does the writer do this?

Can you identify the words that appeal to the senses? Underline them.

ARE YOU READY TO PRACTICE?

Is today's lesson clear to you? If not, go back to our discussion. Remember, sensory images are powerful and memorable because they make us see, hear, smell, taste, and feel every detail in what we are reading. As we read, we feel as though we, too, are experiencing the object or scene described.

If our lesson is clear to you, then you are now ready for more practices... enjoy working and learning.

Name: _____
Grade Level: _____

Section: _____
Teacher: _____

PRACTICE EXERCISE 1

Read each sentence carefully. Then, fill the chart with the sensory images you have experienced during the reading. A statement may create more than one sensory images.

I see	I hear	I taste	I smell	I feel

1. The stone fell with a splash in the lake.
2. The wild gusts of cold wind pierced her body.
3. The fragrance of spring flowers made her joyful.
4. The burger, aromatic with spices, made his mouth water in anticipation of the first bite.
5. The starry night sky looked so beautiful that it begged him to linger, but he reluctantly left for home.

PRACTICE EXERCISE 2

Read the poem below and answer the questions next to it.

Fresh-Baked Bread

I watched hungrily as my mother opens the oven
To check the progress of the bread
My eyes devour the lightly browned crust.
The mouthwatering aroma drifts across the kitchen.
The delicious fragrance sneaks silently
Past my nose into my brain
My tongue searches for a taste
My empty stomach shouts,
Eat! Eat! Eat!
Mother says a few more minutes.

1. Who is speaking in the poem?

2. Where is the setting of the story?

3. How does the persona feel about the bread in the oven?

4. What sensory images make you want to eat the bread the well?

5. Why couldn't the persona not eat the bread yet?

PRACTICE EXERCISE 3

A. After being locked down for quite a long time, surely, you have been longing to step out of your everyday life and into new adventures. So, imagine yourself going on a road trip with your family for an out of town vacation. Suppose you're on your journey, try to create the following sensory images in your mind.

Sight: The view outside the windows

Sound: A stereo system, and all the other sounds you hear inside the car.

Smell: Fresh air, fragrant flowers

Taste: Snacks on the way

Touch: A smooth and comfortable ride

Did the sensory images you've created in your mind evoke some emotional reactions? How did you feel?

Name: _____
Grade Level: _____

Section: _____
Teacher: _____

B. This time, write a poem describing that road trip with your family. To create a lifelike and realistic scene about that road trip, add more specific sensory images. Talk with your sibling and/ or your family members to gather more interesting and concrete sensory images.

C. To entertain and bring joy to your family and friends, you may share your poem on your Facebook timeline.

GENERALIZATION:

Sensory images refer to descriptive words that appeal to the sense of sight, taste, hearing, smell and feeling. When readers make sensory images as they read, it helps them understand and enjoy the story more.

EVALUATION

The poem below which is a reflection of many Filipinos in this present time, is rich with sensory images. Read the poem carefully, then answer the questions that follow. Enjoy reading as you come to an appreciation of how sensory images can contribute to your over-all understanding of the poem.

SONG FOR A DRY SEASON

by Emmanuel Torres

It is a wonder how on a fine day like this
With the sun spilled on the hard stained planks of walls,
The wind lolloping, the birds singing and singing,
We pick up broken pieces and are poor.

Though nothing has changed our lean and hardwood house,
We still can bear our faces on the cracked glass
And be glad that our pain is personal, be glad
The bed is in one corner, the table nailed in place.

No special feast lies on the breakfast table;
It is rice and fish and coffee steaming and steaming
There is no wine but a China jug of water
Will do to make us relish appetite.

Everything is spare and useful to keep alive
Talk -- such as the rough-grained texture of table,
The stove burning, the floorboards creaking and creaking.
Familiarity still fails to blunt our senses.

This lot may not be worth a curse.
All is within reach of want as long as love is able.
That sunhammered tree outside our crooked window
Manages some leaves in a dry season.

MODULE IN ENGLISH 8

Quarter 1/ Week 1/ Day 4

OBJECTIVE: Determine the meaning of words and expressions that reflect the local culture by noting context clues

EN8V-If-6:

YOUR LESSON FOR TODAY:

Would you always scratch your head and frown every time you come across an unfamiliar word while reading?

Even the most proficient in the English language has to look up a meaning of a word from time to time. But, today we will learn how to unlock the meaning of unfamiliar word without using a dictionary.

- Context Clues – are hints or clues that an author gives to define a difficult or unfamiliar word.

Different Types of Context Clues:
Synonym	A word with the same meaning is used in the sentence. Clue words/signal: or, that is. Or in other words are used. (semi-colon, dashes, and parenthesis are used). Example: My opponent's argument is fallacious , misleading – plain wrong .
Antonym	A word or group of words that has the opposite meaning reveals the meaning of an unknown term. Clue words/signal: but, however, although. Otherwise, unless, instead of, on the contrary, on the other hand, while, unlike. Example: Although some men are loquacious , others hardly talk at all .
Definition	The unknown word is explained within the sentence or in a sentence immediately preceding. Clue words/signal: is/are called, is/are known as, is defined, means, refers to Example: The patient is so somnolent that she requires medication to help her stay awake for more than a short time .
Example	Specific examples are used to define the term. Clue words/signal: Example: Celestial bodies , such as the sun, moon, and stars , are governed by predictable laws.
General sense	The meaning of an unfamiliar word can be inferred or guessed from the description of a situation. The author provides non-specific clues, often over the sentence or number of sentences. Example: The monkey's vociferous chatter made me wish I had earplugs .

PRACTICE EXERCISE 2:

Take a look quick at the paragraph. Do you feel overwhelmed to see several unfamiliar words in one entire reading passage? You should not.

Read it carefully and you'll surely encounter the clues that will help you arrive at the meaning of the difficult words.

Mariel was a precocious child to say the least. She produced brilliant watercolor paintings by the age of three.

At first, her parents were flabbergasted-utterly blown away- by their daughter's ability, but soon they got used to their little painter. Her preschool teacher said that Mariel's dexterity, or ease with which she used her hands, was something she had never seen in such a young child. Little Mariel never gloated or took pride in her paintings; she just smiled contentedly when she finished one and requested her parents to give it to someone as a gift. Whenever people met Mariel for the first time they often watched her paint with their mouths agape, but her parents always kept their mouths closed and simply smiled over their little Mayet.
